Can national definitions which differ from the definitions provided in the EC Guidance document on Monitoring and Evaluation be used for common indicators?

For common indicators, national definitions can only be used for the following four output indicators:

- migrants, participants with a foreign background, minorities (including marginalised communities such as the Roma),
- participants with disabilities,
- homeless or affected by housing exclusion,
- other disadvantaged.

For all other indicators, the definitions in Annex C1 of the EC Guidance document on Monitoring and Evaluation are to be applied.
